Graduation Dinner Dance

The traditional Graduation Dinner Dance in honor of the Class of 1982 was held May 22 at the Lockhaven Country Club.

In classical style, students, faculty, staff, spouses, and significant others enjoyed a delicious buffet supper and a very special entertainment line-up featuring live music and an exclusive engagement by Malcolm Berg, Jerry Dortch, and Jon Brown. Few in attendance escaped the barbed wit of this wacky trio. Highlights included a synopsis of potential continuing education courses offered by 1982 grads, the presentation of the "Pat of Butter" award to Larry Osborne, and a truly remarkable impersonation of Dr. Sim by the multi-talented Berg. Later, Dean Butts and Jean Neposchlan ignited the dance floor and delighted the crowd by performing their impersonation of Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire.

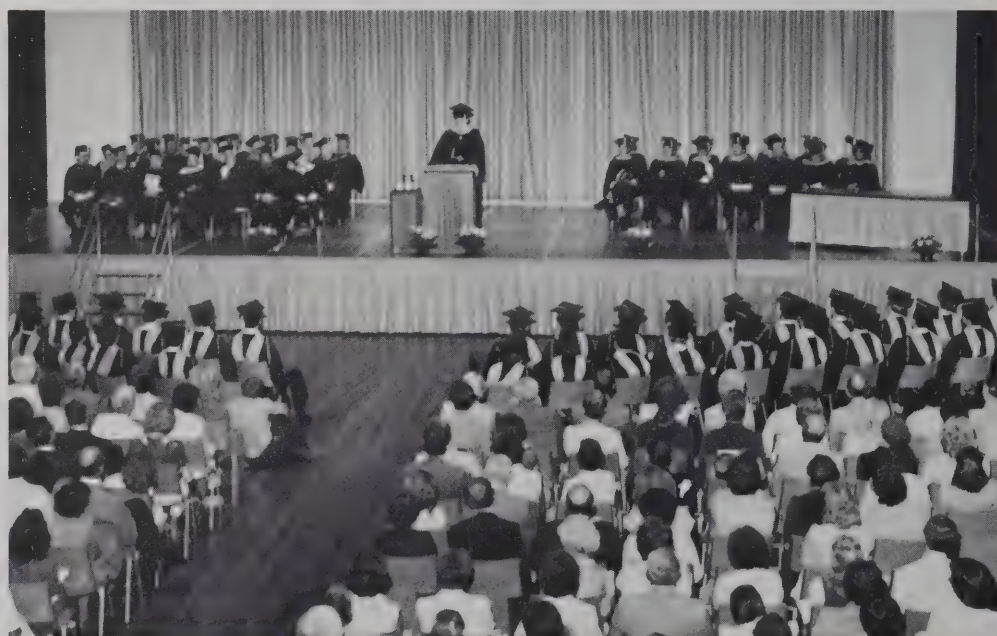

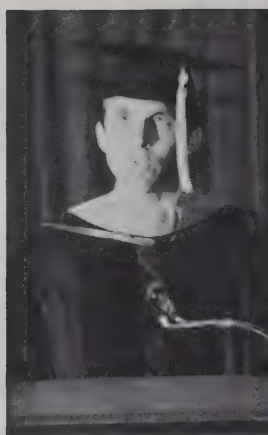

For many of the '82 grads, this would be the final opportunity to dine, drink, and be merry with fellow classmates for a long time . . . and we made the most of it.

Presentation of the "I'll Do Anything To Get Through Dental School" award.

The Fifth of June, 1982

"Broken zipper! The story of my life."

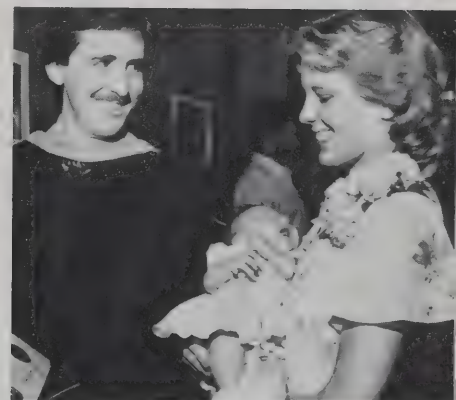

The luxurious Meridian Ballroom was the scene of a satisfying climax to four years of dream-chasing for the Class of 1982.

Highlights of the program included welcomes from President Lazerson, Chancellor Shaw, and Dean Butts; and a moving address to The Class by Dr. Diego Redondo, vice chairman of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, stressing the more important yet more abstract responsibilities of one attaining a doctorate. The high point for The Class was the response presented by Chris Sehy, igniting the new graduates and the audience with a very special pride by reviewing the generalized efforts, hard work, and sacrifice that made our dream a reality.

Of course there was the pomp of diploma presentation and the hooding of graduates, followed by a bountiful reception for all of those who participated in and witnessed a truly memorable event.

The Impressions staff regrets that not all SDM civil service personnel are pictured. We all realize that the civil service staff performs often thankless jobs that are many times taken for granted. However, we want the staff to understand that their efforts are always appreciated, even though we seldom take the time to acknowledge it as we should.

Southern Illinois University

School of Dental Medicine
Office of the Dean

July 23, 1982

Dear Graduates,

This has been an exciting and rewarding first year for me as Dean of the School of Dental Medicine. During this time we had three major challenges; a review by the IBHE's special Dental Education Committee, the ADA's accreditation site visit, and a directive to substantially trim the annual operating budget; and met them all successfully.

Shortly after I came to SIU in August 1981, I was informed that the IBHE was forming a special committee in order to determine the need for the continued existence of the School of Dental Medicine. The faculty, students, and staff of SDM and the University administration at Edwardsville worked very hard and long to prepare for committee hearings in Alton and East St. Louis and to supply a voluminous amount of informational material for the IBHE. All involved did an outstanding job in helping to prove that the SDM was fulfilling its mission of educating dentists primarily for Southern and Central Illinois. Based on the written and verbal testimony of those who participated, the special committee concluded that the school was carrying out its original goals and there was justification to continue the school. The committee made such a recommendation to the IBHE in December, and the Board approved the recommendation in January.

In March the school had an accreditation site visit by the ADA Council on Dental Education to determine whether or not the SDM would maintain its "full approval" status. The SDM accreditation committee, headed by Dr. Philip Hoag, spent 18 months preparing for this event and did an outstanding job. Everyone on campus--faculty, staff, and students--cooperated fully with the committee and spent many hours preparing countless documents for review by the site team. During the March visit the SDM community made such a favorable impression that the ADA committee was convinced that the school was carrying out its academic responsibilities very well. Also, the school's excellent record in all aspects of dental education were noted by the visitors. Ultimately, the ADA Council on Dental Education, after reviewing the report of the site team, voted to continue the school's "full approval" accreditation status.

Finally, under IBHE directive and compounded by the State's budgetary problems, the SDM operating budget faced significant reductions for the coming fiscal year. Fortunately, after carefully studying the budget to determine what areas could be safely reduced or eliminated without severely damaging the educational program of the school, this task was accomplished with a minimal loss of services and personnel.

This has truly been a challenging year for the school and for me personally. In order for us to have successfully met these challenges, everyone in the school and the University administration cooperated fully. I would like to express my appreciation to all those who performed so admirably last year. It was their cooperation and support that made our first year together so outstanding and successful.

Special Events

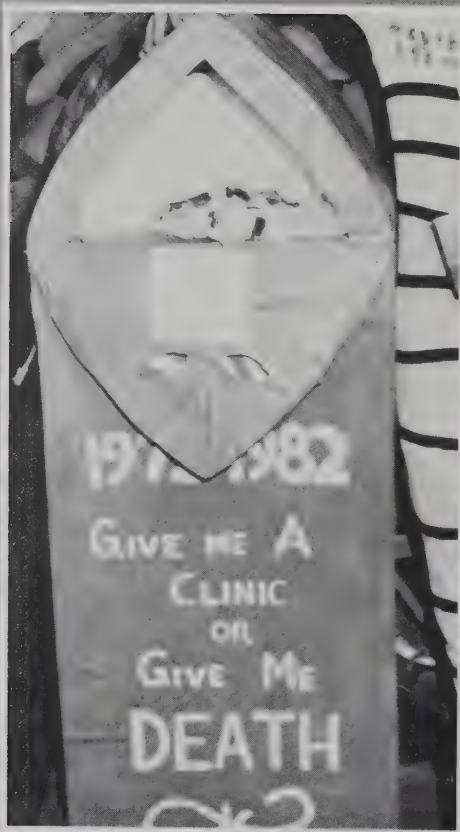

HALLOWEEN!

Halloween, that's short for "All Hallow Even", the eve of All Hallows' of All Saints' day. The SDM celebrated the occasion by throwing the annual Halloween Party. The event took place on the evening of October 31, 1981, at the Edwardsville VFW Hall. Entertainment was belittlingly provided by "The Ghost Riders." Prize winners were Mark and Val Cavanaugh for best jack-o-lantern, Scott Welch for best costume, John Schad for best school related costume, and Jeff Kempala and Vanessa Allee for best couple costume. There were plenty of "treats" for the partygoers, not to mention the "tricks" being performed on the dance floor. The extravaganza regrettably came to a close as October slipped into November, and Halloween of 1981 had ended.

Christmas Cheer . . .

The Edwardsville American Legion Hall, decked with mistletoe and boughs of holly, was the setting for the annual Christmas party. For this traditional highlight, students, guests, wise men, and shepherds donned fancy threads and warm overcoats in order to celebrate the holiday season. Good food, live music, yuletide spirits, and a loose group of party experts provided for a most enjoyable evening of Christmas cheer. An SDM institution, this year's party ornamented the end of a great calendar year and the beginning of 1982.

National Children's Dental Health Week

The Crowds Gather . . .

National Children's Dental Health Week is one of the main events of the year. Sponsored by the School of Dental Medicine, Madison County Dental Society, and Lewis and Clark Community College, the fair was held Saturday, February 13, at the Alton Square Shopping Mall. The Dental Health Fair offers something for everyone — young and old — from V.I.P.s, songs, and skits; to magic acts, poster contests, and game booths.

Many long dedicated hours of preparation are needed to coordinate all the activities of the fair. This year's chairman was Dr. William Cox Jr.

82 The Dental Health Fair was an enjoyable event for all who attended. All the bright smiling children's faces were the rewarding measure of a huge success.

Table Clinics

Part of the Annual Alumni Day activities at SIU-SDM include the table clinic presentations. The table clinics, prepared and presented by students, are designed to present new and innovative ideas to visiting alumni, faculty, and staff. This year's table clinic topics ranged from microorganisms to microcomputers.

The table clinics are judged, and the following awards were presented:

Retention of Dental School Urged

Continued operation of the Southern Illinois University School of Dental Medicine is vital to the dental health of central and southern Illinois. This was the theme of testimony presented today to the Dental Education Committee of the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) by Dr. Earl Lazerson of Alton and Dr. John A. Shaw of East St. Louis.

Dental School

Among the more significant events of the past year was the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) inquiry into the "educational and economic justification" of our institution. Possibly initiated by the school's request for new clinic facilities and fueled by a letter writing campaign by competition threatened dentists from around the state (mostly U of I graduates). The IBHE staff considered a plethora of testimony and statistics, most in favor of the dental school, which not only would determine the fate of the new clinic, but the very existence of the school in any form.

An alleged overpopulation of dentists in the state, questions concerning the cost-effectiveness of an SDM education, the need for new facilities, and the potential for U of I to increase class size if necessary were the principle arguments against our institution. Dean Butts and President Lazerson prepared a solid factual and statistical defense for these allegations. Among their arguments was the excellent record of the school in placing dentists downstate, the purpose for which the school was established and an area where U of I has performed inadequately; the quality of education demonstrated by SDM students as reflected by board exam scores; the minimal tuition and living costs to students attending SDM; the economic impact of the school on the Alton area; and the benefits to metro-east residents treated by the Alton and East St. Louis Clinics.

On October 20, 1981, the Dental Education Committee of the IBHE conducted hearings on both the Alton and East St. Louis Campus. The Alton hearing was particularly impressive, featuring not only factual and statistical defenses, but also strong statements of support from downstate politicians and from-the-heart testimony of area residents pointing out the more intangible advantages of the school, such as the historical virtues of the Shurtleff campus and the moral uplifting of the area's disadvantaged for the low-cost quality care delivered by our clinic. The hearing was described by one local editorialist as "one of the most remarkable displays of community and political unity behind a common cause in recent years."

On December 1, the Dental Education Committee recommended to the IBHE that the SDM campus be maintained. Even though some revisions were found to be in order, the committee's general impression was that "SIU/SDM is fulfilling its mission in providing dentists for central and southern Illinois, regional clinical services, and continuing education courses for practicing dentists. There is no justification for closing the school."

School. It will give recommendation to the Board of Education the next day. University President Earl said he thought the members "listened to" testimony presented to them. "It was a very strong

U of I power is seen in dental school study

Our institution faced the challenge this year of a site visit by the American Dental Association Council on Dental Education in order to establish the accreditation status of our school.

Over the past few years, a number of possible conditions militating continuation of full accreditation status have been mentioned by various critics. A questionable library building, barely adequate preclinical lab facilities, and the departure without replacement of several biomedical faculty members were considered significant shortcomings. The dental clinic itself, an efficient but overcrowded building originally conceived as a temporary structure, was considered to be the most evident stumbling block to full accreditation. In recent years the university has been campaigning for new clinic funds from the state government, and the general fear among the SDM community was that only probational accreditation would be granted unless these provisions could be secured.

The "new building" controversy has hung like a dark cloud over the university for years. Initially, during the Cherrick era, a completely new facility was proposed which included a clinic, preclinical lab facilities, lecture rooms, and faculty offices. This comprehensive and expensive proposal initially showed some promise but fell under the ax of budgetary restrictions imposed by the state. More recent proposals recommended a building which would serve chiefly as a dental clinic, significantly reducing the financial burden of the state.

The ADA accreditation representatives were given an informative, comprehensive view of the dental education facilities and curriculum by Dean Butts and the SDM accreditation committee. The representatives were particularly impressed with the historic, serene setting of the school; exceptional programs within the curriculum such as the E. St. Louis Clinic and emphasis on the behavioral sciences; the applicant pool and admission program, and the quality of the student body. The chief shortcoming noted by the ADA representatives was the failure to replace lost biomedical faculty members, conceivably resulting in a less than optimal biomedical science program. Despite this, the school not only was awarded full accreditation status, but the ADA representatives were laudatory in their remarks to Dean Butts concerning our fine dental education program.

East St. Louis Satellite Clinic

Southern Illinois University at East St. Louis, formerly the Fairmont Hotel.

The East St. Louis Satellite Dental Clinic, which officially opened August 29, 1980, is located in a remodeled fourth-floor wing of SIUE's East St. Louis Center. Patients are accepted for care four days a week. Emergency treatment and comprehensive dental care is performed.

The Clinic has nine operatories and is staffed by SIUE senior dental students, general practice residents, faculty, and civil service personnel. The senior students are currently scheduled to spend twelve days of the senior clinic at the East St. Louis facility.

The Satellite Clinic not only serves as an exceptional educational opportunity, but also provides a much needed and appreciated service to the East St. Louis Community.

Staff:

Faculty: Sheldon C. Cohen, D.M.D., Director
Kenneth Long, D.D.S.

Secretary: Deborah Bailey

Dental Assistants: Mary Ringering
Wilma Jines
Merindia Poe

Athletics

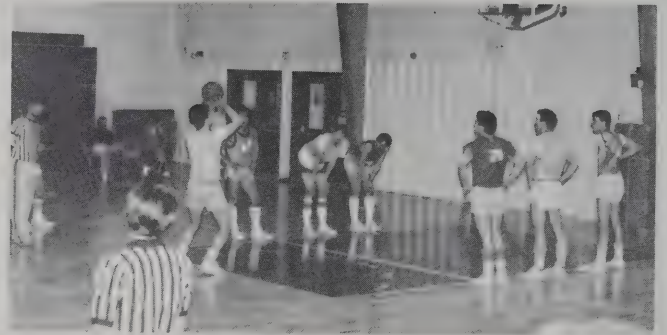

TRADITION

The Spring of 1982 brought to an end the school year for the first four year class at SIU-SDM, and also the longest domination of intramural sports in SIUE history. The Class of 1982 concluded intramural competition at Edwardsville with its third consecutive basketball championship. The graduating seniors lost just one game in three years of competitive play, including post-season tournaments.

Although the basketball team was perhaps the most successful, the flag football team boasted of two consecutive intramural championships in 1980 and 1981, only to lose in the semifinals in 1982 to the eventual intramural champions.

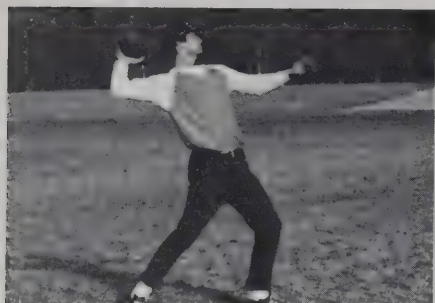

Other exceptional talent surfaced in the diverse arenas of slow-pitch softball, tennis, racquetball, golf, table tennis, pool, foosball, mud-wrestling, and bowling, where success was often not measured at the intramural ranks.

It was suggested at the beginning of the freshman year to the Class of 1982 to work hard while at school, to study hard at home, and to play hard during breaks. Athletics has provided a release for the frustrations and tensions of dental school and all of its concomitant responsibilities. Athletics has provided a forum for teamwork, responsibility, and performance to mesh in an atmosphere of friendship and goodwill. The subsequent birth of camaraderie carries over into the dental classrooms and clinic, making dental school a little less a burden, a little more memorable, and last, but not least, a little more human.

The Gutterperchers

The Gutterperchers, representing SDM at the Wood River Bowl, continued their relentless assault on the ABC Wednesday Night Men's Handicap championship honors. As in years past, they fell embarrassingly short of first place, but nonetheless managed to maintain one of the league leading enjoyment/pin ratios. Team regulars included Harvey Breckner, Paul Good, Irv Koster, Dave Milner, Larry Osborne, and the famous Doc Repine; with able-bodied assistance from Jim Dunne, Mike Hesterberg, Roger "Pins" Lewis, Gary Lindsay, and Bob Morrison.

TABLE TENNIS TOURNAMENT DOUBLES

1st Jim Farrow and Larry Luber
2nd Dave Safranski and Allen McCall

Action! That's the only way to describe the nearly 20 teams trying to beg, borrow, or steal a share of the lucrative prize money offered this year at the doubles tournament. This was the richest tournament in SDM history and the competition was red-hot.

When the smoke cleared, the senior team of Larry and Jim were on top. This was due to Jim's devastating serves and Larry's net shot — where the ball is slammed directly into the net and falls immediately on the opponents side, bouncing exactly 3 times.

Capturing second place was the strong team of Allen and Dave. Good serves, solid volleying, and a few questionable calls propelled this young team into the money. Congratulations and good luck next year!

TABLE TENNIS TOURNAMENT SINGLES

2nd Place Scott Jensen

The singles tournament was a giant success this year providing lots of fun and great competition. Excitement was in the air as Jim Farrow fought off Allen McCall to come from behind and win a close match. Jim then beat Scott Jensen for the championship and became the only athlete in SDM history to win the Ping-Pong Tournament 4 years in a row.

The partnership between Dave and Jim began when they met at the SDM Student Union. Combining Jim's tournament experience and lightning pull shot with Dave's steel-curtain defense, they formed a team that was to go undefeated in all metro-area tournaments. They competed at SIU-E and became the first SDM team to win the all-campus championship — without leaving the winner's bracket! They then entered several local tournaments and won them all, bringing home trophies and cash prizes.

In 1982, SIU-E sent the team to the U of I to represent their school in the All-Illinois and Indiana Bistate Tournament. They dominated the early matches defeating such teams as Northern Illinois University and powerhouse Indiana State. With only 3 teams remaining in the tournament, Jim and Dave suffered their first loss to top-seeded Carbondale, 5 to 4. They then overpowered the loser-bracket champ, a tough U of I team, and took their last shot at the championship.

This time it was a grueling 45-minute marathon against Carbondale with fifty spectators watching. After fighting to a 4 to 3 lead, Dave and Jim lost a close one, 5 to 4, and had to settle for second place. This is the only time a team from SDM has placed in a state-wide tournament.

Special thanks to Bob Dennison, who helped tremendously by coaching and providing a good sparring partner.

Matgold and the Alloys

Malcolm "Matgold" Berg

The Infamous Mack Bride

Jay Bowman

What began as a creative diversion from the daily grind of dental school life became a full-blown artistic pursuit for a group of musically-inclined SDM students. Founded in the fall of 1979 by Malcolm (Matgold) Berg and Randy McBride, Matgold and the Alloys fast became an institution within an institution. Teaming up with the original members to form the rest of the band were Jay Bowman, Winston Bedford, and Dave Uthoff.

From 1979 to one last goodbye performance just prior to graduation in 1982, Matgold and the Alloys provided true "cosmic" relief at various school dances and those now legendary racquetball parties.

Characteristic of the bands' style was the fact that each of the members personified individual musical tastes — Matgold and the Alloys was a true fusion band. No two performances ever turned out the same, and they never lacked the ability to surprise all listeners with incredible individual performing talents.

It's not sure how the members found the time and energy to deliver such quality "party music" and still survive the rigors of life in dental school. One thing, however, is for sure — there will never be another Matgold and the Alloys.

Memories of '82

In Memorium

Buffy

1976-1981

Our faithful companion and loyal campus mascot, Buffy's death remains cloaked in mystery. Some have speculated she committed suicide, owing to an insurmountable depression spawned by the absence of her faithful companion, Dr. Kadis. Others have hypothesized her untimely death as the devious handiwork of Dr. Schopp, to satisfy his interminable quest for sacrificial canines. It matters not, for the memory of Buffy lingers in all who knew her, and will persevere as a legacy of campus life at SDM.

Dedication

Joe Lopez

Joe's influence on our years of dental education served to teach us much more than what to look for in quality porcelain work. He was an inspiration, enveloping our day to day lives. Not only in the pro lab, but at the many school social functions he religiously attended, Joe served as a catalyst around which amazing things seemed to happen. Always with a big smile, an extended hand, sometimes remembering our names, whether whipping us at poker or racing a requirement deadline, none of us can ever forget the genuine affection and generosity brought forth by this man. Joseph, old friend, you're a good guy.
